SEO Service Page Brief & Draft

Content strategy + first-draft copy for a remote administrative support landing page

1. Brief

Audience

Founders and operations managers of small remote teams (5–40 people) who need reliable admin, data, and content support without hiring full-time.

Primary goal

Convert visitors who already understand the problem into a discovery call or email inquiry.

Primary keyword cluster remote administrative support · virtual assistant for startups · data entry and research support · remote operations assistant

Key messages

• Reliable execution from written briefs
• Clear communication and visible status
• Accuracy over guesswork — uncertainty is flagged
• Flexible across data, research, content, and admin tasks

Proof points available

Process examples (data cleanup, evaluation scorecards, task trackers), tool fluency (Excel, Docs, Canva, research), and a structured quality checklist.

Tone

Professional, calm, specific. Avoid hype and unverifiable outcome claims.

2. Page outline

Section	Purpose
Hero	Outcome-focused headline + short proof line + primary CTA
Problems	3 pain points the reader already feels
How I work	Brief → organize → deliver → flag blockers
Services	Data & quality · Admin & research · Content support
Working style	Accuracy, clarity, confidentiality, handoff quality
CTA band	Invite to discuss a specific remote task or role

3. Draft copy (hero + services excerpt)

Hero headline

Remote support that stays organized, accurate, and easy to hand off.

Hero subtext

I help remote teams with data handling, research, written communication, and day-to-day administrative execution. Work starts from your brief, ends with a clear deliverable, and never hides uncertainty.

Primary CTA

Discuss a remote task or role

Services — Data & quality control

Spreadsheet cleanup, record review, discrepancy logs, and consistent formatting so your next step is obvious. I standardize what can be standardized and flag what cannot.

Services — Administration & research

Document organization, concise research briefs, task tracking, and professional written handoffs. Designed for managers who need progress visible without another meeting.

Services — Content support

Draft copy, light editing, SEO-aware page text, and social content support. Clear structure first; polish second.

4. Review checklist (used before handoff)

- ■ Keyword cluster appears naturally in H1 and first paragraph
- ■ No unverifiable outcome claims
- ■ Single primary CTA
- ■ Services match actual capabilities
- ■ Contact path is obvious
- ■ Reading level suitable for busy operators
